The passport is important as it proves that other countries recognized Tibet as a part of China. The passport is issued by the government of China and is valid for 10 years. It is used for travel abroad and can be renewed every 10 years.